Tragnarion Studios tests your knowledge with their new iPhone and iPod Touch game Map My Mind

November 11th, 2009 Mallorca, Spain: Developer Tragnarion Studios, creator of the magical NDS title “Doodle Hex”, are back with the announcement of its first iPhone and iPod Touch game, “Map My Mind”.

Map My Mind is one of the most innovative and playable trivia puzzle games to hit the iPhone and iPod Touch to date. Its original gameplay and huge number of questions will be a true challenge for anyone.

THE GAME

Map My Mind offers single player modes, as well as online leader boards, which will allow the players to measure how much they know about a given subject and compare themselves to other players in their region, country or even around the world.

By harnessing the power of mind maps, Map My Mind puts the player’s knowledge and brain to test, with themed maps built out of related concepts which can be explored by solving trivia puzzles, so that he may establish himself as the true king of sports, movies, history or any other trivia that you can imagine.

Miguel Font, Lead Designer for “Map My Mind” at Tragnarion Studios said: “Map My Mind manages to achieve a good balance between a pure trivia game and a board game. The fact that each map is unique, both in layout and the genre of its questions, allows us to present the player with a new experience every time they try out a different map. Map My Mind is coming together really well on the iPhone and it is especially well suited to this platform. The game’s mechanics, the control method and the interface mould perfectly to the iPhone and iPod Touch, and the art looks simply amazing”.

Map My Mind will come with a huge number of questions and 20 maps to keep you entertained for hours. Do you have any particular interests? Map My Mind will also feature extra downloadable map packs to satisfy your appetite and will be available at launch via the Apple Store.
